Research Ship Docks at N. Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—Columbia University's research ship Yema docked here Thursday after a voyage of almost a year that took her 40,000 miles around the world and into both arctic and antarctic regions.

Staff members of Columbia's Lamont Geological Observatory met the three-masted schooner. The oceanographic research voyage produced several important achievements, most of which were announced by the university from time to time.

The researchers accumulated a large amount of scientific data which will take a long time to analyze and interpret.

Cotton Ginned Is Behind Last Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Census Bureau reported today that 1,905,396 running bales of cotton from this year's crop were ginned prior to Sept. 16. This compared with 2,213,932 ginned to the same date last year.

The ginnings by states this year and last, respectively, included: Arkansas 91,802 running bales this year and 149,627 last year. At Little Rock, an agricultural spokesman said the Arkansas reduction resulted from slightly lower yield this year combined with weather conditions which caused a later harvest.

Castro and Nikita Talk ... Peace?

NEW YORK (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro talked together for five hours Friday night, Castro said they discussed "peace."

Khrushchev, confined to Manhattan since his arrival last Monday, will spend the weekend at his country's baronial estate in Glen Cove, Long Island. The State Department lifted his security clearance enough to permit him to make the 25-mile trip.

Little Glen Cove's 38-man police force will be beefed up with about 70 Nassau County police to guard Khrushchev and other Soviet diplomats.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic flew in Friday night to join the cast of world leaders attending the 15th U.N. General Assembly session.

About 400 diplomats from Arab and Asian states welcomed him. Another 1,000 stood outside the immediate arrival area.

Among the greeters were 50 members of an American Negro nationalist movement. Their sign read: "Allah is the greatest."

Nasser also is staying on Long Island, in a 25-room mansion at Sands Point.

Khrushchev did not indicate whether he would have any big shot diplomats at his Long Island retreat, but he did not rule out the possibility.

Asked if he would invite Nasser, he replied: "Let him come."

The Soviet leader seemed jovial Friday following the blockbusting speech he dropped at the United Nations.

There was another "balcony scene"—this one in pantomime—at the Soviet delegation's mission on Park Avenue. He smoked an Indian peace pipe and topped off his schedule with his dinner date with Castro.

Through it all, he dropped pungent and often biting remarks on a wide variety of subjects.

The unpredictable Castro was nearly 40 minutes late for his date with Khrushchev, while the Soviet chief waited impatiently for him on the sidewalk outside the Soviet U.N. headquarters.

As time went on, seamen asked Khrushchev if he felt like a bride left waiting at the church.

"I was never in the condition of that bride," laughed Khrushchev.

Asked how long he planned to stay in New York, Khrushchev said jokingly: "I want to stay here. I do not want to go back. But apparently I will not be granted citizenship."

Finally Castro and his entourage arrived. The two men shook hands, then embraced.

College Board Member Leaves A&M

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus today announced the resignation of James F. Wahl of Helena from the Arkansas A&M College Board of Trustees and indicated the resignation sprang from a controversy over an ouster move against Lawrence A. Davis, the college president.

"I presume because he is a school man, he doesn't want to get involved in the controversy," Faubus said at a news conference. He said he had appointed S. M. Anderson of Helena, a radio station operator and brother of Sen. Joe Lee Anderson of Helena, to the vacancy.

Wahl's letter of resignation stated that he had appreciated serving on the board and felt the college had made great progress.

The letter was dated Sept. 14, the day after the board's request for Davis' resignation was made public. Davis, head of the college for 18 years, is under fire in connection with an audit report of alleged discrepancies in handling of a scholarship fund.

Davis has indicated he will follow the board's request and resign at mid-term. Negro groups, however, have protested the ouster move.

Faubus has indicated he will keep hands off the matter.

A full scale audit of A&M finances is underway with a report promised in four or five weeks. Faubus said Davis will attend a meeting of the Southern Regional Education Board, of which he is an Arkansas member.

The board will meet in conjunction with the Southern Governors' Conference.

Men, You Had Better Read This One If You Are a Bit Interested in the Future

By Mary Anita Laseter

One week from today is the deadline for paying your poll tax, and poll tax receipt is necessary to vote in the November general election. For the past 40 years that has applied to women as well as men, and experience has shown a gradual increase in the distasteful side of the voting public.

Citizens, did you know that today we have the political power to elect a U. S. lady president? That is because the men of voting age are outnumbered by women of voting age by about 3,500,000.

Oh, it's sad but true that too many women fail to exercise their privilege of voting. However, that failure is on the decline, and 1960 is the first year women are expected actually to outnumber men at the polls.

In Arkansas, women have to make an extra effort to qualify as voters because they have to ask to pay their poll tax, and the poll tax is automatically assessed against the men. Despite this, they take more interest in voting than men.

Mrs. Connelly Convicted, Gets 3 Years

Hot Springs, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. Bonnie Connelly was convicted Thursday night of voluntary manslaughter in the 1959 shooting death of her husband, A. Garland Connelly. Circuit Court jury set a three-year prison sentence.

Defense attorneys said they would appeal the ruling just as they did Mrs. Connelly's earlier conviction on a charge of second degree murder. The Arkansas Supreme Court overturned that conviction and sent the case back for retrial.

Mrs. Connelly was calm as the verdict was read by jury foreman Milton Nobles Jr. Her 17-year-old daughter, Bonnie Joe Connelly, who testified Thursday in her mother's defense, burst into tears.

"Regardless of the verdict I know in my own mind I am not guilty," Mrs. Connelly said. "I hope I will be given another chance to prove my innocence."

She remained free on $10,000 bond until the sentencing.

The jury deliberated four hours and 10 minutes. Circuit Judge P.E. Dobbs instructed the jury that it could find Mrs. Connelly innocent, guilty of second degree murder, or guilty of manslaughter.

Mrs. Connelly contended that her husband, Joe Connelly, 43, hit her and abused her and that the .22 caliber pistol she was holding discharged. She said she did not remember pulling the trigger.

Prosecutor Walter J. Hebert asked for a second degree murder conviction and a maximum 21-year prison sentence. Defense attorney Jack Holt told the jury in his closing argument that "the state has taken you clear around the world to cloud your minds in the hope that you would put poor Bonnie Connelly in the penitentiary."

Hope Star's picture and engraving department Thursday completed the largest commercial engraving job in its history. It produced 70 three-column cuts for a Little Rock account, totaling 1,964 square inches—the equivalent of six newspaper pages of pictures.

The job was begun last Tuesday and completed Thursday, for two and a half days actual "time."

Car Misses Curve, Six Persons Die

ALLEGAN, Mich. (AP)—Six persons—including three children—were killed near here when their car missed a curve on a lonely rural road and smashed head-on into a tree.

The wreck was discovered this morning by a passing motorist on his way to work. Officers said a watch worn by one of the victims indicated the accident occurred at 10 o'clock Thursday night.

All six passengers—a man, two women and three children—were crushed in the car.

Investigators tentatively identified the driver as Ernest Cox, 34, of Covert, Mich.

Identification of the other victims was not available immediately.

The 1955 model car apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed, police said. It traveled some 110 feet after leaving the road before it smashed into the tree. Pieces of wreckage were found 94 feet from the point of impact.

Gloom Settles Over U.N. As Nikita Rants

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—There is an oppressive air of gloominess settling over the United Nations. Nikita Khrushchev created it.

The hotbed leader of world communism, giving the impression of one trying to use the U.N. machinery as a private lawless arena, came a sort of guy from behind the scenes.

His General Assembly speech Friday—his second before the U.N.—and by far the most bewildering—seemed to dash any hope that this session might produce a real contribution to lessening tensions that have the world's nerves on edge.

Khrushchev not only set back the cause of peace, but did himself a disservice. If his primary idea in coming to the United Nations has been to impress the world of his truly peaceful intentions.

There is a lot of dismay around the corridors of this big glass building today. It is not confined to those Western Europeans and Americans who may have hoped for some concrete advance from this historic session.

Khrushchev just about told the U.N. in so many words that he will not tolerate any action on its part that interferes with Soviet plans and policies.

The Soviet Union was upset by events in the Congo, where Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld won the support and admiration of most U.N. members. In his handling of a crisis that the Soviets apparently wanted to convert into a situation of chaos.

So, Khrushchev tells the U.N. Let's get rid of Hammarskjöld. In fact, let's abolish the post of secretary-general and set up an executive board where Communist representatives can raise hell with any peace mission the U.N. might try to undertake.

Some delegates even suggested that Khrushchev might not have been wholly serious in his proposals to rip up the U.N. machinery and move the headquarters to some other country. But if he was not serious, then he did an even greater disservice to the cause of peace. Peace-making in a nuclear age is a life-or-death affair that does not lend itself to airy clowning.

Snag Is Seen in Pakistan, India Truce

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP)—President Mohammed Ayub Khan of Pakistan warned today that settlement of disputes between this country and India could be nullified unless the Kashmir issue is solved.

He sounded the warning after Prime Minister Nehru of India had left for home at the conclusion of 4½ days of talks which Nehru said would result in friendlier relations.

But on the bitter dispute over which nation shall control the state of Kashmir, Nehru told a news conference discussions had not led to any precise result.

The two leaders earlier signed a treaty settling a dispute over the distribution of waters from the Indus River basin.

A communique said that Ayub Khan would visit India, but gave no date.

United Nations teams have supervised a cease-fire line across Kashmir since 1949. Hindu India controls about two-thirds of the Himalayan state where 77 per cent of the four million people are Moslem. Moslem Pakistan holds the other third—a largely mountainous and infertile segment of Kashmir's 82,250 square miles.

Alumni Asks Resignation of President

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—Outraged Arkansas AM&N College alumni called Wednesday night for the resignation of Dr. C. A. Flowers of Pine Bluff as president of the National AM&N Alumni Association.

The request came at a mass meeting of the Pine Bluff alumni chapter which met after Flowers suggested the AM&N Board of Trustees should fire college President Lawrence A. Davis immediately rather than permit him to resign at mid-term.

The trustees asked last week for Davis' resignation, following an audit report on alleged irregularities in handling of the school's finances.

Since the ouster move, a number of AM&N alumni groups, the faculty and students have rallied in support of Davis, who has headed the Negro school for 18 years.

Kennedy's Wife Resumes Writing

By DICK WEST United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mrs. John F. Kennedy, the only potential first lady who was once a card-carrying journalist, resumed her newspaper career this week as an unpaid columnist for the Democratic National Committee.

In a column, Mrs. Kennedy said she is now a colleague and I wish to welcome her return to the fold. However, I hope that her non-salaried status doesn't start a new trend.

The title of her column, which the committee is distributing on a weekly basis, is "Campaign Wife." This would make a fine title for a radio soap opera but it has certain drawbacks as a column heading.

It means that in November she either will have to change the title or retire again.

Writes Of Frustration
In her first column, Mrs. Kennedy wrote of "How Frustrating It Is" to have to stay home and tend to her knitting while her husband is out campaigning. At least I assume she has been knitting.

The reason she can't join her husband on the campaign trail is because she is expecting her second child in December. "So," she said, "I decided one way to keep from feeling left out was to talk through this column to the friendly people all over the country I would have met while campaigning."

In her previous experience as a journalist, Mrs. Kennedy conducted an inquiring photographer column for the Washington Times-Herald. She went around taking pictures of truckdrivers and asking them questions like "What do you think of the new Paris fashions?"

She Was Shy
One of Mrs. Kennedy's former co-workers told me that she was rather shy in those days and seemed to find this sort of thing distasteful. On occasions, some of her male colleagues would lend her a hand.

I might add that Mrs. Kennedy was, and is, a very attractive brunette and I suspect this made it easy to get volunteers.

Subsequently, she got married to the present Democratic presidential nominee and the Times-Herald merged with the Washington Post. But I suppose this was only coincidental.

Last Monday, Mrs. Kennedy invited some of her sister journalists in for tea and shop talk. The conversation naturally touched on the recent controversy over how much she and Mrs. Nixon spend for clothes.

Mrs. Kennedy made it plain that she has no intention of engaging in a wardrobe feud with her Republican rival, and I sort of regret this. It would have made good column material for the both of us.

UN Asked to Get Out of Congo Affairs

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana demanded today that the United Nations turn over to the independent African states the Congo to the independent African states.

"The Congo is an acute African problem which can be solved by Africans only," the golden-tongued Nkrumah told the General Assembly in a fiery speech.

He warned the delegates that the crisis in the Congo must be arrested now before it sparks off another world conflagration.

Nkrumah said the free African states, especially those "whose contributions in men and material make the United Nations effort in the Congo possible," should place their forces "under a unified African command with responsibility to the Security Council."

Nkrumah emphasized that the international force must work "in cooperation with the legitimate government of the republic," and he left no doubt that he considers Patrice Lumumba, who has been in and out of power as premier, to represent legitimate authority in his country.

Suspended Term in Booby Trap Slaying

BENTON, Ark. (AP)—G. S. Shores, convicted of involuntary manslaughter in a "booby trap" slaying, has been given a one-year suspended sentence.

The sentence was set by the Saline Circuit Court jury which convicted Shores Wednesday of the lesser manslaughter charge after hearing his trial on a second-degree murder charge.

He had been charged in connection with the death of John Allen Ferrell, 35, last Dec. 20. Ferrell died after he was struck by a blast from a shotgun Shores had rigged to fire when the back door of his Owensville home was opened.

The defense contended that numerous break-ins at the house, which he and his wife had vacated, led Shores to set the trap.

Agencies Told No Lobbying, Faubus Says

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today he has instructed state department heads not to lobby in the 1961 Legislature for higher appropriations for their agencies.

Faubus made the remark while discussing financial matters at a news conference today. He said department heads would be committed to stand by budgets agreed on with his office.

Budgets for all departments will be ready before the Legislative Council begins its biennial round of budget hearings Oct. 18. Faubus said.

The governor gave no hint of trends in the state financial picture, but he did indicate that the state may provide funds for teacher pay increases next year.

"However, it looks like most of this money will be taken up in retirement plans," Faubus said.

He would not elaborate, but reports have circulated that teachers will try next year to get Social Security benefits along with their regular retirement plan.

Under the retirement plan, the teacher contributes five per cent of his pay and the state matches this. Adding Social Security would call for an additional three per cent contribution from each party.

Faubus noted that the last large teacher pay increase was provided from state funds after a 1957 tax increase. He said many school districts had failed to supplement this increase with additional funds they received from an increase in property tax assessments in 1958-59.

Dollarway Case Will Have to Wait

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—U. S. District Judge J. Smith Henley said today he won't be able to review an appeals court mandate in the Dollarway integration case until next week.

Henley said there will be further action in the case but that he could not say what this would be until he had studied the mandate, which was delivered to him yesterday.

The 8th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis reversed a Henley decision on Aug. 30. Henley had approved the Dollarway School Board's plan of integration under which a six-year-old Negro girl integrated the Dollarway School Sept. 8. The appeals court said the plan did not meet requirements of the law.

The mandate directs Henley to take further action but does not specify what he should do. He apparently can either order a new hearing or wait until one of the parties in the suit comes into court with a new pleading.

Data on Red Methods Told to Probers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Candy and drugged wine, a pretty ballerina acting as a modern Mau Mau torturer and murder. These are the ingredients of Communist espionage methods in Germany, the Senate Internal Security subcommittee has been told.

Theodor Hahn, identified as a former U. S. Army sergeant and civilian secret agent, gave the testimony Wednesday. He said he was born in Germany, became a naturalized U. S. citizen, and has had 16 years of dealing with Communist espionage in Berlin.

Hahn said he has had on several hundred kidnappings by Communist agents in East and West Berlin. He said the Communists use torture in their prisons to break down prisoners, and drugged wine and candy to help their abductions.

The witness also said in 1954 an East German ballerina, Irmgard Schmidt, was used to make social contacts with "two important officials of the United States intelligence service." She was caught by counteragents, he said, and given a five-year sentence.

Hahn told the subcommittee political murders often are disguised as suicides.

Short Sellers Potential Stock Buyers
By SAM DAWSON AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Stocks sold short on the New York Stock Exchange by those looking for a drop in prices were at the highest volume just before Monday's break of any time since March 1959.

This could give the market a nice cushion now. Those who sell short are potential buyers.

A 12 per cent jump in short interest volume since mid-August also may be cited as a sign that more traders were expecting a break than at any time in 18 months. As such, it is an indication of trading psychology, but one that has to be kept in perspective.

For one thing, the big gain among stocks clearly sold in expectation of declining prices was in a few issues, most of them recently subject to big price buildups.

And for another, the increased volume of stocks sold short is still but a tiny part of the number of stocks outstanding. The New York Stock Exchange says the Sept. 15 total of 3,634,971 shares amounted to about 0.1 per cent of all stocks listed on the big board.

Insofar as the stocks sold short are included in those taking a tumble Monday, the short sellers have made money—if that's any silver lining to dark market clouds.

A short sale works this way. The trader borrows stock from some holder and sells it at the going price. He must buy the stock later on the open market to replace the shares he has borrowed.

If the price has gone down in the meantime he makes money. If it has gone up and sooner or later he is forced to buy back at the higher price he has lost money.

That's why brokers warn that short selling isn't for persons with unsteady nerves or shaky bank accounts. It can be a quick road to loss or insolvency. And even when the deal is lucky, the suspense can cause ulcers.

On Sept. 15 there were short positions in 958 of the 1,528 issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange. In 158 stocks the short interest amounted to 5,000 or more shares or had shown a change since mid-August of 2,000 or more shares.

And while the stock market is testing out a new floor for prices, the bulls will take comfort from the fact that holders of the increased total of shares sold short will help provide a market. When prices drop enough for their liking they'll buy and replace the borrowed shares.

Also on the prowl will be bargain hunters. They reason that in any big drop in prices some shares are bound to be bid down more than warranted. Thus the selling minded won't have it all their way.

Mother of Twins Calls on Police

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—The parents of identical 5½-month-old triplets had to call in the police to make sure each boy was being called by his right name.

Mrs. Earl Millet was afraid the boys would get mixed up after being brought home from the hospital. "We want to be positive we're calling the right one by his right name," she said.

Police Capt. Emory Morel took footprints of the babies and compared them with originals at Baton Rouge General Hospital. Mrs. Millet was right. Darrell and Carroll had been mixed up

Possibility of Foul Play Probed

NEWPORT, Ark. (AP)—Although it is today investigating the possibility of foul play in connection with the death of a 99-year-old man whose decomposed body was found in a soybean field Wednesday.

Coroner Otis Dillinger said he had no idea how the body of Abraham Franklin of Fort Wayne, Ind., got into the field, about a mile east of here. He said Franklin had been dead about a week.

Dillinger said Franklin was reported missing about an hour after he arrived in Newport Sept. 10 with Mrs. Lelah Hines and her son, both of Fort Wayne.

The son returned to Fort Wayne after bringing Mrs. Hines and Franklin to Newport, where they planned to open a used clothing store.

Escapes Jail to Attend Son's Funeral

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Roland Lopez, his hands manacled, stood between two detectives and cried quietly beside a little boy's grave.

Lopez, 27, a convicted robber, had escaped from prison to attend the funeral of his stepson, Joseph, 5. But police caught him first.

After the services Wednesday he turned to detective Vernon Weigand and said: "Thank you. Thank you for letting me see my son before he went to heaven."

The officers led Lopez away—back to prison, where he faces a charge of escape. It carries a sentence of from one year to life.

Last January Lopez began serving five years to life at China Prison, a minimum security facility, for the robbery of a bowling alley near his Sacramento home Dec. 15.

His wife, Josephine, and Joseph Cordova, her child by a previous marriage, moved to a hotel in nearby Pomona so they could see Lopez on visiting days.

On Aug. 18 little Joseph fell down a stair. After 18 days in general hospital, he died.

Lopez asked prison officials for permission to attend the funeral. Rules prohibit it. Permission denied.

So, Lopez said, he walked away from a work gang. He knew Joseph's body had been taken to the coroner's office, because he and his didn't have money for funeral services.

"I spent five days and nights outside the coroner's office," he said, "as near as I could get to Joseph."

Detectives traced Lopez and arrested him. In the meantime, services had been arranged. A couple Mrs. Lopez met in the hospital while Joseph lay dying raised $50 and called a mortuary to see if that would buy a funeral.

The mortician heard the story and agreed to provide the funeral arrangements free.

Pomona police heard Lopez' story and agreed to let him attend.

DOROTHY DIX

Clergyman Asks If I am Real
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE
Dear Helen:

I have been sending the Dorothy Dix column for several months to a friend in London, a Congregational Minister. He enjoys it but questions the authenticity of its authorship and whether the questions printed and answered are written by different people or made up by you.

I told him that these are really questions the people asked. He seems skeptical about this. I want you to tell me if these are genuine questions printed in your column daily?—Peter Blinn, Tacoma, Wash.

Dear Mr. Blinn: When Dorothy Dix died in 1951, the column was continued by the very able Muriel Nissen.

I took over after Miss Nissen's sudden death last year.

I couldn't dream the questions up if I tried, nor would there be any need. Letters pour in by the thousands from the United States, Canada, Europe and even Australia. I read every single one. Through practice I am now learning to appraise and classify them rapidly. Requests for letters are passed along to Doris Williams, my secretary for 26 years. Often I scribble a special word of encouragement to the sender.

Letters demanding immediate attention are answered personally by me and, if a crisis has to be met, sent airmail special delivery. In the more desperate cases, if not compromising to the sender, I telegraph.

I reply to less pressing but equally human problems week days in this column. Sundays are reserved for stories based upon my years of experience as a newspaper reporter and magazine writer here and abroad. Readers who request that their letters not be printed get personal replies. The balance of the mail is answered only if the senders supply stamped, self-addressed envelope. All letters are burned. So are the envelope once the stamps have

Powers Seeking to See Khrushchev

NEW YORK (AP)—Oliver W. Powers, seeking clemency from Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for his son, Lt. pilot Francis Gary Powers, was admitted to the United Nations building today.

There was no immediate indication whether he would be able to see Khrushchev.

The elder Powers, previously had tried unsuccessfully to see Khrushchev at the latter's temporary residence in the Park Avenue headquarters of the Soviet U. N. delegation.

Powers was unable to get through police barricades set up outside the residence. Police told him Khrushchev already had left for the U. N.

Dejected and close to tears, Powers took a taxi cab with a family friend, Sol Curry, and set out for the U. N. building to make a renewed attempt.

Powers, who arrived here with his wife and Curry from Virginia, said he had tried several times without success to reach Khrushchev by telephone.

U. S. Ready to Show Few A-Reactors

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The United States announced today it is prepared to throw open four of its nuclear reactors to inspection by experts of the International Atomic Energy Agency. The move is to demonstrate its belief in the necessity and workability of international inspection measures. The United States took the initiative on an issue which is regarded as the most crucial question facing the fourth general conference of the IAEA, the atomic-energy organization. U.S. Delegate John A. McCone, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, made the announcement after reading a special message to the conference from President Eisenhower. The President reaffirmed his confidence in the agency, saying "I see it as a unique forum where technical skill and resources are pooled for the benefit of mankind." McCone summed up the U.S. record of aid to the IAEA, which he called impressive, and then declared the United States is ready to take a major step in overcoming the delicate East-West problem of international safeguards to insure that nuclear material handed out by the agency is not diverted for military purposes. "If the safeguards system is put into effect, the United States will request the agency to inspect four of its reactors for an agreed period. These are two research reactors at Brookhaven National Laboratory near New York; the reactor at Argonne National Laboratory near Chicago; and the organic moderated nuclear power plant being constructed at Plaquemine, Ohio. Although none of these use any IAEA fissionable material, it should be clear to all from this offer that the United States believes that the safeguards system now before this conference for consideration is reasonable and should be acceptable to all states receiving material or equipment through the agency," McCone said. The agency earlier upheld the rejection by its credentials committee of Communist bids for admission of that China and accreditation of Hungary. The delegates voted 31-7 against a Soviet motion to oust the Nationalist Chinese and replace it with a Peiping delegation. There were eight abstentions. Democrats carried the election in 1974, and haven't lost a statewide election since.

Remarks That Folks on Diet Tire of Most

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks people on a diet get tired of hearing: "Haven't you been pulling on a little weight lately?" "Tilly fatty." "And then you rode in here in a coup of sugar, and the whipped cream and—"

Actually, in your case, it's probably not so much fat as it is a matter of posture. Why don't you just try pulling in your stomach? You say it already is pulled in? Oh!

Off you it looks good!

Goodness, how I envy you. No, I really mean it. I eat and eat, and eat and never gain an ounce.

"My cousin goes to a friend who tells him that losing weight is simple—if you just think your mind to the point where you forget all about hunger pangs."

"You mean that all the calories you're allowed for a whole day? Why in the old days you used to spill more than that on your necktie during lunch."

"Have you tried the lemon juice and aspirin diet? I hear it works wonders—and you can eat all the aspirin you want."

"Talk to him about a basilisk (Khrushchev, the atom bomb or anything else at all, but don't mention food).

"Have another carrot. Oh, go on, take two."

"My friend ate nothing but grapefruit juice and marmalade. And in less than three weeks he dropped two whole pounds."

"So what if you are a little overweight? I had a uncle who weighed 280 pounds and he lived to be 90. Of course, he was dead the last 25 years, but on the other hand—"

"I know you must be sick and tired of cucumbers. Why don't you try for a little more variety? How about a nice radish, for example?"

"Yes, you still take a size 10 collar. But if I were you, I'd try a size 17. This time, not that you need it, but it'll just give you a feeling of added comfort!"

"Have you heard about the new all-protein diet?"

"Have you heard about the new all-carbohydrate diet?"

"Have you heard about the new all-vitamin diet?"

"Anybody can take it off. But keeping it off—that's the really important thing."

"Oh, don't tell me you're on a diet, do! Now I've heard every thing."

"Get your glass, dear, and fill it with your breakfast."

THE EASTER DINNER

BY DONALD DOWNES

Copyright © 1960 by Donald Downes. Distributed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

(THE STORY: While Americans advance on Rome early in 1944, Cicco has been performing valuable services for the underground. He has just stolen a brief case from a German officer, and turned it over to Paolo MacDougall, the American espionage chief.

Chapter V

Cicco headed home, full of gratitude for the Conte's order to get some sleep before setting out for Ronciglione.

As he trudged up the steps to his door he heard the chatter of female voices inside. It was going to be hard to sleep. But when he entered and saw the council of war in session, he knew sleep was to be impossible. There, seated on every available object were his wife, three of his daughters — Rosalba, Maria and Marzia, and Peppino Guasti, Peppino's elder sister, and his mother and father. They were obviously waiting for him.

Clementina, presiding officer of the meeting, explained that Peppino and Rosalba wished to be married in May. There would have to be a proper engagement dinner, at least a month before, and plans for the wedding date and ceremony must now be agreed upon by the two families.

"I am pleased, Domenico, to have my daughter marry your Peppino," Cicco addressed Peppino's father. "He is a very good boy. He is serious. He works hard. But Cara Annunziata!" — he turned to Peppino's mother — "you know as well as I do that if we had the money to buy all the sheets, and all the other things — things for a house — they are not to be had at any price."

"We have discussed that problem. It is solved," replied Peppino's mother. "Our other three boys are prisoners of war. Rosalba and Peppino can come and live in the boys' room, with us, until the war is over and their first baby is born. You can buy everything for the wedding chest — when peace comes."

"That is all very well," Cicco replied, "but have you also solved where we are going to get oil, pasta, abbacchio, coffee, sweets, spumante — all the things for an announcement dinner and a wedding feast? You can't have a wedding, or even an announcement without the right things."

"We decided," Clementina interrupted, "we would combine the engagement feast with Easter, early in April, a month before the wedding. Surely things will be better by then. Probably the Americans will be here."

"I don't really see why, with the war and all this," said Cicco with new courage. "Perhaps... couldn't we just make the announcement of the engagement without a festa? Wouldn't people understand? Or even postpone it until the Americans come. It won't be long now."

The women were shocked into silence by such defiance of usage and decorum; Rosalba burst into tears and, covering her face with her hands, ran into the girls' bedroom. She carefully continued her sobs loud enough to be heard by everyone.

A half hour later Cicco had lost. Rosalba's sobs were too much for him. It was decided that the engagement dinner would be held on Easter Day, and the list — the minimum list — of guests reached 23. The wedding would be on the 15th of May, and — beginning this very day, the 24th of February — Cicco and his sons and daughters would begin the search for the wherewithal. Satisfied but slightly hostile, the Guastis withdrew.

Late that afternoon, Paolo MacDougall returned to Luchino's.

"I came back, Luchino, because we — my radio operator and myself — have been trying ever since I left here to make contact either with our radio in Anzio or with the base station in Naples. No go. There's a tremendous amount of enemy traffic on the air, and what worries me most is that somehow the Germans must be on to our wave lengths, because they're all being jammed. I'm very upset, especially with this dummy-tape information which is so important. Getting it through might well be the difference between a disaster and a victory on the beachhead."

"I'll go myself, Paolo, through the lines."

"I couldn't let you go. Your organization in Rome would fall apart without you."

"But really no one is indispensable."

"I am afraid you are — here in Rome. You are my sole productive source here. Our contacts with the others — the Specialists and the Communists and the Catholics — are in the hands of other Americans. I don't even know who they are."

"You remember the other day I spoke to you about homing pigeons? In the very first message I get through, I'm going to ask

Bobcats Lose To Smackover By 13-7 Score

By VINCE FOSTER

The Hope Bobcats were edged 13-7 Friday night at Smackover by the Smackover Buckaroos. This 4AA contest was an offensive battle throughout the game, highlighted by the passing of Bobcat Lloyd and Buckaroo Parks. All three TDs came in the exciting second period.

Midway in the first quarter, Hope drove down to the Buck 3 yard line, only to be stopped cold by the hard charging Bucks defense. Then early in the second period, the mighty Bucks took the ball on their own 14 and sparked by a 68 yard scamper by Neal, they rolled down to the Hope 10, where FB Joe Black barreled over. The PAT failed and the score was Smackover 6, Hope 0.

Midway in the second period, the Bobcats took the ball over on the Smackover 45, from where they drove down to the 1 in 6 plays, where FB Joe Matt Herndon plunged over Joe Duke split the uprights, and Hope led 7-6.

Later in the period, Smackover bounced 60 yards to the Bobcat 8, where Black again scored. His conversion was good and the score read Smackover 13, Hope 7.

During the half, many Bobcat boosters who had traveled to Smackover to support the Cats, saw the Hope and Buck bands and

The Ages of Man

Here they are pictured from One to Seventy...from infancy to old age. It seems a long, long time from one to seventy, but it is only a little while from Seventy to One. The point is, we don't have much time here. The clock's face shows the hours ticking swiftly away. Then, since eternity is so much longer, perhaps we should spend more time getting ready for the life to come. Better not to have been born at all than to spend your life in riotous living. Rededicate yourself. Support your church, give to the needy and be an influence for good. It won't make much difference how much land one owns when the bell rings. But don't forget... it matters much how one lives before the bell rings.

You In The Church
The Church is You — form a combination for good: Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker, a daily bible reader and attend services regularly.

The Churches of This Community, Are the Only Institutions Which Have as Their Main Function, the Transforming of Human Lives
They Are the Sign Boards Pointing the Way to God.

Sponsors of these messages urge faithful church support. Through this series of pages the appeal is for all men to stand up and be counted . . . to combat
Communism on all front . . . to be faithful to God.

Our Ministers Are God's Servants Who Call the Signals Against the Organized Forces of Evil. They Invite You to Enlist On the Side For God. . . to Come to Church.
